Your answers to important health questions could help the Metro Area

September, 2014 - The next time you go to your mailbox you may find that your household is one of 60,000 randomly selected to complete the Metro SHAPE (Survey of the Health of All the Population and the Environment).

Bloomington Public Health is one of eight local public health departments conducting the Metro SHAPE. This voluntary, confidential survey is part of ongoing efforts to determine the health status and needs of the community. Your response is important because it will influence future decisions about what we do in the community to help everyone improve their health. You may give your answers online or on paper.

For more information about the Metro SHAPE 2014 survey visit www.MetroSHAPE.us. The Metro SHAPE 2014 survey is funded in part by the Statewide Health Improvement Program of the Minnesota Department of Health.
